

Gotta Let You Go

(P Gould)

I never meant to hurt you that's all I seemed to do never my intention all the things I put you through maybe I was crazy and you know it's hard to sell maybe we were strangers who only knew each other well so now

Time to light up my world time to lighten my load I know
if I can't lay in your arms
gotta let you go

So who am I to lean on when I'm about to fall who am I to talk to 'bout the wonder of it all who am I to lay with on some lazy afternoon and share the everyday with I been so lonely in my room
so now

Time to light up my world
time to lighten my load
I know
if I can't lay in your arms
gotta let you go

I blew holes in your confidence please don't take offence you stopped making sense to me

No amount of suffering can drive away the pain no amount of pleading can bring you back again I know the way you loved me won't be easy to forget but the heart of my renaissance is to live without regret
so now

Time to lighten up my world time to lighten my load – don't want to be lonely I know
if I can't lay in your arms
and turn the lights down low

This love will be remembered that cannot be restored it's broken and dismembered in pieces on the floor
if I can't lay in your arms
gotta let you go

W A T E R T I G H T

Phil Gould

I took you into my confidence lost my innocence
you stopped making sense to me