

Gould, Brown & Black Terraforming

The Meaning of the Word

You wander round your home looking for a comfort zone and wonder why?
In order to protect the image you try to project you live a lie

You turn to the mirror that hangs on your wall a face coming clearer you don't know at all a paler reflection of your former self a closer inspection reveals someone else

Into the great unknown
don't even know what part to play out of your comfort zone there's only love and hate today

The meaning of the word has changed you say - something so absurd, so real,<sup>11</sup> so strange

Look over your shoulder as if in a dream your body grows colder, don't know what it means so long you've been shut down content in your skin it comes like a breakdown without and within

And when the cold wind blows you'll find a space to hide away Under the rocks and stones there'll be no place for you to stay
Into the great unknown
don't even know what part to play
out of your comfort zone
there's only love and hate today

The meaning of the word has changed you say - something so absurd, so real, so strange

